Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 25, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Minden (5035069).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-3, 8, and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either Minden (5035069) or Savino (1953659) in view of Sothen (1836624).

Either Minden or Savino shows a dance shoe with a sole having a curved arch so that the toe is located downward and below the bottom of the heel substantially as claimed except for the toe portion of the sole extending upwardly along opposite sides of the shoe. Sothen teaches extending the toe portion of the sole of a dance shoe upwardly along opposite sides (at 18) of the upper to increase support in the toe region. It would have been obvious to provide side portions as taught by Sothen in the shoe of either Minden or Savino to increase support and durability of the shoe.

5. Claims 16, and 19-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either Minden (5035069) or Savino (1953659) in view of Morrone (2002/0078591).

Either Minden or Savino shows a dance shoe with a sole having a curved arch so that the toe is located downward and below the bottom of the heel substantially as claimed except for the upper having an opening with eyelets, laces, and a tongue. Morrone teaches forming an upper with eyelets, laces, and a tongue (see figure 6) as an alternative upper for a dance shoe with an upper without such an arrangement (as shown in figure 1). It would have been obvious to form the upper with eyelets, laces, and tongue as taught by Morrone in the shoe of either Minden or Savino to allow a tighter fit, more adjustability in the fit, etc.

6. Claims 17 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claims 16 and 19-24 above, and further in view of Sothen (1836624).

Either Minden or Savino as modified above shows a dance shoe with a sole having a curved arch so that the toe is located downward and below the bottom of the heel substantially as claimed except for the toe portion of the sole extending upwardly along opposite sides of the shoe. Sothen teaches extending the toe portion of the sole of a dance shoe upwardly along opposite sides (at 18) of the upper to increase support in the toe region. It would have been obvious to provide side portions as taught by Sothen in the shoe of either Minden or Savino as modified above to increase support and durability of the shoe.

7. Claim 26 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Minden (5035069) in view of Sothen (1836624).

Minden shows a dance shoe with a sole having a curved arch so that the toe is located downward and below the bottom of the heel substantially as claimed except for the toe portion of the sole extending upwardly along opposite sides of the shoe. Sothen teaches extending the toe portion of the sole of a dance shoe upwardly along opposite sides (at 18) of the upper to increase support in the toe region. It would have been obvious to provide side portions as taught by Sothen in the shoe of Minden to increase support and durability of the shoe.

8. Claims 27-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Minden (5035069) in view of Morrone (2002/0078591).

Minden shows a dance shoe with a sole having a curved arch so that the toe is located downward and below the bottom of the heel substantially as claimed except for the upper having an opening with eyelets, laces, and a tongue. Morrone teaches forming an upper with eyelets, laces, and a tongue (see figure 6) as an alternative upper for a dance shoe with an upper without such an arrangement (as shown in figure 1). It would have been obvious to form the upper with eyelets, laces, and tongue as taught by Morrone in the shoe of Minden to allow a tighter fit, more adjustability in the fit, etc.

.Response to Arguments

9. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

10. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
